Clear Skies Eggshell and Satin

Great Paint Without the Poisons!

Earthpaint's Clear Skies is not the typical low VOC paint. It is Healthy Sustainable, made from local, natural and low-embodied energy materials to create a pure acrylic paint. It is excellent for interior or exterior use. No copolymers or vinyl are used in this innovative, super green product.

"Low VOC is just one of many great outcomes that happen by focusing on non-toxic, sustainable paint production. It's not the primary goal." said Earthpaint CEO Tom Rioux.

Clear Skies employs innovative additive technology. The coating does not require the usual toxic biocides, defoamers, solvents, vinyl and coalescents common in today's low VOC paints.

Without compromising the paint's performance, Earthpaint has been able to utilize food grade and skin cream technologies that are safe for the users of the paint. Mr. Rioux states, "This is what today's customers really want when buying 'Green Paint'. They want Non-toxic | Sustainable paint not just low voc."

The paint is manufactured utilizing gravity fed technology along recycled content, creating an extremely low ecological footprint. Regionally derived and manufactured ingredients makes Clear Skies an attractive choice for LEED points as well. Painters, hospitals, builders, architects and log & timber builders are among those making sincere efforts to use responsibly made paints like Clear Skies.

Earthpaint offers 1,750 European Designer colors, custom color matching and a 25-year warranty. Clear Skies is priced similarly to premium brand paints with volume discount incentives.

Clear Skies is one of more than 20 non-toxic and sustainable paints, wood preservatives, concrete sealers and plasters offered by Earthpaint Inc., which was founded by Rioux after he discovered decades of exposure to toxins in traditional paints made him severely ill. The company's mission is to make professional-grade paint without the poison.
